

MISSOURI COMMUNITY ACTION NETWORK

You are not alone in your work—you are part of a community committed to ending poverty. Join a statewide network of agencies and people dedicated to Community Action. Connect with peers. Advocate for low-income families. Educate others about poverty. Grow professionally through trainings, events, and courses. Become a part of something bigger. Become a member of Missouri CAN.

What is Missouri CAN?

Missouri CAN is the statewide association for Community Action. They connect Community Action Agencies and their employees to the entire Community Action movement, both in Missouri and across the country. They advocate for Community Action; educate others about poverty; and help staff grow professionally at their agencies.

What do they do?

Missouri CAN advocates for Community Action in Missouri and on the federal level; educates the public about poverty through the Poverty Simulation and biennial Poverty Report; and helps members grow through trainings, webinars, and online courses geared to Community Action staff.

Why should I join?

Community Action is more than a job—it's a movement. By becoming a member, you support the cause in Missouri and the nation. You are part of a bigger community. Missouri CAN connects you to that. They help you advocate, educate, and grow professionally.

What are the benefits?

Missouri CAN connects you to a statewide community dedicated to alleviating poverty. You can learn how to advocate for your community, educate others about poverty, and grow professionally through events, trainings, and online courses. You also receive exclusive discounts and deals for things such as travel and education.

How do I join?

Visit www.communityaction.org and download the membership form. Fill it out and give it to your Human Resources department. We take care of the rest. Dues are 0.25% if you make up to $21,000, and 0.33% if you make over that. The average cost is $5 a month—the price of a good cup of coffee. You can quit at any time.
